About this site

The GIS product evaluations available on this site are a snapshot of the products available in December 04 / January 05. We accept that other products were available at this time that were not, for a variety of reasons, included in this project. The evaluations are based on the use of the product by two people, a GIS professional and a geography teacher. Therefore, any comments made about products featured on this site are the opinions and experiences of these two people only, and should not be accepted as in any way definitive. The software providers were offered the opportunity to view the entire evaluation document for their product/s before its content was made accessible to the general public. This site is in no way biased towards a particular product or GIS provider. The project has, from its outset, endeavoured to be impartial. We would like to thank all those who have helped with the evaluations and software provision.

The information found on the GIS pages is for individual use only. We do not authorise the use of either of the site by any third party organisations without the permission of the Royal Geographical Society with IBG. Use of this site for commercial training reasons is also prohibited without permission and payment- please contact education@rgs.org for more information. If you wish to use the site for departmental inset (schools and higher education institutions only) please notify us beforehand and no charge will be made. These projects have been funded by the DfES, and all information belongs to RGS-IBG (copyright).
