Supporting schools

Other ways the Society supports schools:

Geography Ambassadors

The Geography Ambassador scheme recruits, trains and supports undergraduate, graduate and postgraduate geographers from universities and business to act as ambassadors for geography in the classroom and beyond.

W www.rgs.org/ambassadors

Advocacy on the curriculum

The Society is a leading voice for the value of geographical education across schools and universities and advocates strongly to Government about the value of geography, including fieldwork, as an essential part of the National Curriculum and at GCSE and A Level.

Recognising and celebrating geography

The Society's annual programme of awards and competitions, for both teachers and their pupils, recognises and celebrates examples of excellent work in school geography.

Why should I join?

For a full list of benefits W www.rgs.org/schoolmembership

School Membership is an organisational membership for geography teachers, their colleagues and students which provides – in addition to other benefits – access to contemporary resources, case studies and classroom materials. As well as benefitting directly from the resources we produce and discounts we offer, School Members also help to support our wider work to promote geography with schools, universities, policy makers and the public.

New School Members Area including Geography in the News

Access our new and improved online resource containing in-depth and up-to-date case studies, articles and lesson ideas.

W www.rgs.org/SchMemArea

New School Member lecture series

Attend our programme of termly lectures exclusively for School Members, as well as regional Society events in your area.

Improved Online lectures

Watch high-quality videos online of the Society's popular Monday Night Lectures.

“School Membership helps us to keep abreast of all things geographical. It’s fantastic for providing our students with both up-to-date case studies and insight into where geography can take them in the future.”

Justin La Frenais, Geography Subject Leader, More House School

Ready to use resources

Access over 2,000 webpages of resources linked to curriculum and examination requirements.

Discounts

Receive discounts on our CPD courses, Philip's Atlases and Geographical magazine.

Support the Society

Your membership supports the Society and our advocacy for the discipline.

Enjoy the benefits

With the new curriculum for KS3 geography underway, and changes to GCSEs and A Levels from 2016, School Membership will equip you with the relevant resources, training and advice to support you, your colleagues and students through these changes.

Online resources (incorporating Geography in the News)

Directly linked to the new GCSE and A Level requirements our improved online resources section provides access to over 350 ready to use case studies. These explore key geographical issues and themes and are an ideal way for your students to ‘read around’ their subject. The resources are arranged by topic and theme, and include case studies, research articles and online animations.

School Member lecture series

Attend our termly School Member lectures, held at the Society, featuring leading geographers discussing key topics exclusively for our community of School Members and their students.

School Member Area

To access our School Member Area go to W www.rgs.org/SchMemArea

Online lectures

Access high-quality recordings of the Society's popular Monday Night Lecture series, featuring renowned speakers on a variety of geographical themes and the ‘big issues’ which face our society today. Ideal for exploring key topics, homework and independent research, and to show to your school's Geography Society.

Discounts

- Receive up to 40% discounts on our CPD courses and events, Philip's Atlases, Geographical magazine
- Save £30 on becoming a Fellow of the Society
- Save £50 on your application to become a Chartered Geographer (Teacher)
