

Flee or fight

The war in Darfur, Sudan began in December 2007

False. It began in February 2003

Flee or fight

One of the tribes under attack is called the Fur

True.

Flee or fight

Drought is one cause of the conflict.

True.

Flee or fight

Religion is one cause of the conflict.

False. A UN report suggests similar religion

Flee or fight

Desertification is one cause of the conflict.

True.

Flee or fight

Desertification is when people are forced to live in the desert.

False. It means land is turning to desert

Flee or fight

Overpopulation is one cause of the conflict.

True.

Flee or fight

Overpopulation means that there are not enough resources to meet the needs of the population.

True.

Flee or fight

The land in Darfur is lush and green.

False. It is arid and impoverished.

Flee or fight

The situation is likely to improve in the future.

False. Climate change is making the situation worse

Flee or fight

As many as 1 million people have had to leave their homes.

False. The figure is closer to 2.5 million

Flee or fight

Nomads searching for water have to take their livestock south to land occupied by Black Africans.

True.

Flee or fight

The Sudanese government has been accused of neglecting the region.

True.

Flee or fight

The Sudanese government has been accused of oppressing non-Arabs in favour of Arabs.

True.

Flee or fight

All of the refugee camps are in Darfur.

False. They are also in neighbouring Chad.

Flee or fight

Many villages in Darfur have been burned to the ground.

True.

Flee or fight

There is one clear cause of the war in Darfur.

False. There are several reasons and they are all interlinked

Flee or fight

Land is divided according to colonial ways where one chief is in charge of dividing up the land.

True.